WHAT might have turned out to be a serious accident occurred up the river near Groat's grove on Sunday afternoon last, when Willie Groat and Alex. Turner were crossing the river to visit their neighbors opposite in a small "dog out." They had proceeded to nearly midway in the river, when, without the slightest warning the boat tipped from under them and precipitated them both into the river. The current was swift and having their clothes on, swimming became very difficult. Mr. Groat heard their cry for help from a neighboring field where he was looking at his crop; but was too far away to render any assistance. Near where they were was a rock island submerged below the water about two feet. This they reached in an exhausted condition; but in time to save from drowning.

THE steam thrasher brought in by S. Spafford and Chas. Billings was tested at Mr. Groat's farm on Saturday where it threshed for him 700 bushels in less than half a day and worked to the entire satisfaction of McDermid & McLeod, threshers, who have purchased it. Mr. Seeley will visit Prince Albert and points along the Manitoba & Northwestern railway before returning.

YESTERDAY morning Mayor McCauley received a telegram from A. Gobeil, secretary of the public works department Ottawa asking "are you prepared to pay over to the Dominion government the sum of $15,000, being a sum equal to 25 per cent of the estimated cost of a bridge as per resolution of your council passed 29th November, 1892, and sent to the department on December 5th of the same year." A special meeting of the council was held yesterday afternoon to consider this telegram when on motion of Councillor McDougall, seconded by Councillor Strang, the mayor was ordered to wire back the following answer: "Council are unanimous, and will submit a by-law for $15,000 to the ratepayers if the bridge is built at the lower surveyed site opposite river lot 4. Bridge to be commenced this fall. Municipal money to be paid on completion."

SAM. LIVINGSTONE, the pioneer miner on the North Saskatchewan, who, with Jas. Gibbons, was the first man to pan for gold in the vicinity of Edmonton, is said to have struck it rich on the south branch of the river fifteen miles below Medicine Hat where he has located a claim. Although there were bars on the North Saskatchewan in the early days upon which with even the modern grizzlies such as are now in use $30 a day might have been made, it is nevertheless a fact, owing to the rude machines then made which were nothing but sheet iron drilled with holes, about $15 a day was the highest amount made. The Medicine Hat News says that the men are making eight to ten dollars a day; but Mr. Gibbons has received word from his old friend in which he says the bars there are not as rich as the bars were on the North Saskatchewan in the days of yore.

CARL Kettleson received his preliminary trial before Major Griesbach, at Fort Saskatchewan, last week, charged with stealing a lot of cartridges from Mr. Randall, a gold watch from Mr. Graham and on their recent trip to Limestone Lake. Mr. Randall was the first to notice that his ammunition had been meddled with and about 100 cartridges extracted. Constable Cowan then examined his pouch and found that about 50 were missing from his. Then Mr. Graham remembered his watch and on going to his vest found that the watch was gone and $3 in bills had been abstracted, also everything else of value and some clothing. Suspicion settled upon young Kettleson and a search was made for him. When discovered he was found to be laden with cartridges which were stuffed into his pocket and the lining of his coat. Despite his protests of innocence and his reiteration of the statement that he had bought them he was subjected to a search of his clothing when the gold watch and knife came to light; but the $3 was lost for ever. Carl is about 15 years of age and not amenable to imprisonment for stealing.

A SERIOUS gunning accident happened on Sunday afternoon near the Vermilion lake in which Oakly Bush lost his right arm. He and his father were driving to town from Athabasca Landing on two separate wagons. The one that Oakly was driving had no box upon it; but was crossed by a few poles covered with the camping canvas and other articles. When nearing the Vermilion, the gun slipped out of its place, and while the wagon was in motion, Oakly picked it up to put it back upon the canvas. In picking it up the gun went off and the discharge of shot entered his arm near the elbow extending down as far as the wrist cutting away the flesh, muscles and sinews completely shattering the bone. The boy soon lost consciousness from the shock and the loss of blood, so his father gave up all hope of camping for the night—it being about five o'clock—and pressed on towards town. He arrived here at midnight and on Monday morning Dr. Braithwaite, Harrison and Wilson amputated the arm and on Tuesday he regained consciousness. He is doing as well as can be expected.

W. MACKENZIE of Haultain & Mackenzie, barristers, MacLeod, is in town.

MR. McLAREN of Ottawa, has bought out H. Wilson's general store business, South Edmonton.

K. A. McLEOD had several fingers of his left hand severely injured in the shaper, in his planing mill on Tuesday.

THE car of lime, which with other heavy freight was left at Calgary on the train before last to expedite the travel of the Laurier party to Edmonton, arrived on last train.

THE Royal Templars of Temperance will give an At Home in the lodge room on Monday evening next. South Edmonton Council and Sturgeon river Council will take part.

FIVE Indian children from the Presbyterian mission at Stony Plain, four boys and one girl, will be taken by Rev. A. B. Baird, to the Industrial School, Regina on tomorrow's train.

LA Banque Jacques Cartier opened for the transaction of business here yesterday. Their office hours are 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. Saturdays 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. and 7.30 p. m. to 9 p. m.

POTATOES have been sold as low as 22c per bushel, of excellent quality. With a dearth of potatoes all along the main line in the Territories, such a low price here shows either a lack of enterprise here or a lack of money where potatoes are so scarce.

A RIPE pumpkin, weighing 37 pounds and measuring 4 feet 5 inches in circumference was grown this summer at Beaver lake by Robert Logan and is being used in the culinary department of the Alberta. Mr. Logan has others much larger that he is keeping to exhibit at the fall fair.

THE BRIDGE.

The telegram received yesterday gives the bridge matter quite a business like appearance. It would seem to indicate that if Edmonton will pay $15,000 the government will construct a $60,000 bridge. The questions as to whether the town ever offered to pay part of the cost of a bridge or whether it should pay a part of the cost are not now up for consideration. The only question is. Would a substantial traffic bridge such as would cost $60,000 be worth $15,000 to this town? To this there can be only one answer, provided the bridge is conveniently located, and that is that the bridge would be worth the money. Of course it will have to be understood that the $15,000 is to be Edmonton's total contribution, and not that the town shall pay a quarter of the cost, whatever the cost may be. Government works are to apt to overrun the estimates so that the town dare not go into such a bargain, but it would appear from the nature of the telegram the government only expected the town to pledge a specific amount. There is very little doubt that the action of the council at the special meeting of yesterday afternoon will be borne out by the ratepayers when the time arrives, and if the government really mean business the long expected bridge will be in progress this winter.

JUDGE MACLEOD.

By the death of Judge MacLeod the Northwest has lost one of the most prominent figures in the early history, of its control by Canada. Although the country was transferred to Canada in 1870, it was not until 1874 that the Canadian government undertook to establish its authority throughout the Territories. Everyone knows that the mounted police force of 300 men was organized and started west along the boundary line in 1874 to establish law and order and the supremacy of Canada from one end of the country to the other. The late Judge, then Col., MacLeod was second in command of the force during the march from the Red river to the Rockies and was left in full charge during the following winter at Fort MacLeod which he and his 100 men built. During the following year he succeeded Col. French in the command of the whole force, which command he retained during the most critical years in the history of the Northwest. It is impossible for anyone at this date to realize the magnitude of the responsibility which rested upon Col. MacLeod's shoulders during those years or how those responsibilities were sustained. His headquarters was in the midst of one of the most numerous and warlike of the Indian nations, the Blackfeet. They were the most intractable and by reputation the most treacherous. So much so that the Hudson's Bay Company, who had never failed to do business amicably with any other tribe of Indians with whom they came in contact, were compelled to abandon the attempt to trade with them in their own country. To complicate matters, whiskey traders from the United States had come into the Blackfoot country and built strong forts so that they could defy the Indians and still trade with them. To suppress this traffic was the principal business of the police force. While this was the condition of affairs in the MacLeod and Cypress Hills districts, the rest of the vast extent of the Territories which then covered what is now the greater part of Manitoba as well required attention. How it could be supposed that 300 men scattered throughout the length and breadth of such a vast territory, having to deal with such varied and difficult elements could be expected to maintain law and order and render life and property secure is a mystery; and yet it was done and done so well that at no time since have life and property been more secure than then,—so well that many people thought there was nothing to do, an idea which in 1885 made necessary the services of 5,000 men and cost the country over 50 lives and five millions of dollars. By force of circumstances during the years in which he commanded the police force Col. MacLeod was law giver, administrator and military commander in one. It was during those years that the great Indian treaties were made. It was during those years that the Sitting Bull incursion took place. It was in the latter part of that time that the buffalo disappeared and the Indians were reduced at one stroke from affluence to beggary. But it mattered not what occurred when Col. MacLeod was in command, the difficulty was met and people soon forgot that it ever existed. All this was at a time when there were no railways, no telegraphs, supplies all hauled by cart or wagon and all messages carried by special messengers. How it was all done is a mystery, and the more closely the matter is studied the greater will be the mystery. The only reason that can be given is that it was due to the surprising genius of the commander, and it may well be said that Canada was more than fortunate in having Col. MacLeod in charge of Northwest affairs at that time. That his sagacity, fairness, courage and sound judgment saved this country hundreds of lives and millions of dollars the story of 1885 is sufficient proof, and besides prevented that delay in development that would have taken place had the Indians to be fought from the start, as in the States. On his removal from the commission of police he was continued as a stipendiary magistrate and afterwards made one of the judges of the supreme court of the Northwest. He was also for many years a member of the Northwest council, so that in every capacity he exercised an important influence on Northwest affairs. But it is chiefly upon his services as commissioner of the police that his fame rests. These services have never been recognized as they should have been,—have been ignored rather than otherwise. It would be a proper and seemly thing now that the man himself is dead, if a partial recognition of his services were bestowed upon his family.

GENERAL NEWS.

Coal has dropped $1 per ton at Medicine Hat.

F. Charbonneau of La Presse, Montreal, is coming west to write articles of the country for publication.

C. W. Patterson, secretary of the church immigration society of London England, is on his way westward to obtain information of the country.

Sergeant-Major Spicer, of the Northwest mounted police, applies to parliament next session for a divorce from his wife, Mary Spicer, formerly Mary Saricki, a Blood Indian woman, who is at present residing on the reservation. Adultery is given as the cause.

Mike Maloney, a resident of Medicine Hat, was found dead behind a pile of railway ties near Tilley station last week. He had died from exposure.

The passenger department of the C. P. R. are receiving letters daily from people in South Africa, who left Manitoba last spring and winter and are desirous of returning.

Aberdeen, S. D., Sept. 21st.—It is reliably reported that a worm has made its appearance in Edmund's county, S. D., that is destroying the Russian thistle. It is said there are literally millions of them in a small area. They are small green worms, less than an inch in length, and appear to attack Russian thistle only. The state entomologist has been asked to make an investigation of the matter and report results.

Mr. Stephenson of Morris, Man., has invented a combination plow and threshing machine. It will plow two acres per hour and thresh at the rate of 1000 bushels per day. The machine can also be used for rolling and it has been made to cut and bind grain. It supplies its own fuel by gathering stubble from the ground. It is favorably reported on by L. A. Hamilton, C. P. R. land commissioner, G. H. Campbell, Winnipeg electric railway manager and J. McKechnie of the Vulcan iron works, who have seen the machine tested.

The newspaper proprietor labors at a disadvantage in a time of money stringency, as compared with a manufacturer. The latter can shut down his mill, but the newspaper publisher never finds a time when he can shut down his plant and lay off his employees, until he has to do so for good. The newspaper must be turned out regularly, and the expenses continue right on just the same in dull times as when business is booming. Any retrenchment of the reading matter will immediately bring a protest from the subscribers, yet many of the subscribers fail to think of paying their bills.—Fullerton Tribune.

ATHABASCA TAR DEPOSIT.

The Toronto World, speaking of the trip of Dr. Selwyn, director of the geological survey, and who accompanied Mr. Fraser to Athabasca Landing, to locate the site for the borings, says: "There must be something in the Athabasca oil country, for a syndicate, including one Toronto man, offered the Dominion government $100,000 for the monopoly of the oil districts not many months ago. If the oil is found in large quantities, as there is every reason to expect, Canada will own the largest oil fields in the world, and we will be able to supply oil from Athabasca to Manitoba, British Columbia and all the Pacific States of the Union, and to the islands of the Pacific. The greatest market for oil not yet exploited is Asia, and if we have the oil in Athabasca it can be exported from there to the millions of Asia cheaper than from any other oil field."

In 1888, R. G. McConnell, B. A., a member of the Geological Survey of Canada, explored the district of Athabasca, and his report was published last year in the annual issue of the department. Mr. McConnell made an exhaustive surface exploration of the country in question, and from his report the following extracts are taken:

"The most important natural gas spring in the district occurs on the Athabasca at the mouth of Little Buffalo River. The gas here forces its way up from the tar sands through 250 feet of the clear-water shales, and issues from the surface in numerous small jets distributed over an area of 50 feet or more in diameter. The natural gas springs have less value in themselves at present than in the indications they afford of the existence of petroleum beneath."

"The tar sands, the principal bitumen-bearing formation of the district, are described in a preceding part of the report. This unique formation is of Dakota age, and constitutes in this region the basal member of the cretaceous series. It rests unconformably on the Devonian and is exposed overlying the latter along the valley of the Athabasca for a distance of ninety miles. Lithologically it may be described as a soft sandstone, the cementing material of which is a bitumen or impregnated petroleum derived from the subjacent limestones. The boundaries of the tar sands were only precisely defined at a few points, but they were estimated to have a minimum distribution of fully 1000 square miles, were either completely uncovered or buried beneath a part of the overlying clear-water shale on the highlands, and exposed in the river valleys. They vary in thickness where the section is complete from 140 to 225 feet. Taking the thickness at 150 feet, and assuming the distribution as given above at 1,000 square miles, the bituminous sands in sight amounts to 28.40 cubic miles. Of this mass, if the preceding analysis is taken as an average, although it is probably rather high, 22.9 per cent. in bulk or 6.50 cubic miles is bitumen. The amount of petroleum which must have issued from the underlying limestones to produce 6.50 cubic miles, or by weight approximately 4,700,000,000 tons of bitumen, cannot now be estimated, as the conditions of oxidation and the original composition of the oil is unknown. It must, however, have been many times greater than the present supply of bitumen."

"The commercial value of the tar sands themselves, as exposed at the surface, is at present uncertain, but the abundance of the materials and the high per centage of bitumen which it contains make it probable that it may in the future be profitably utilized for various purposes when this region is reached by railways. Among the uses to which it is adapted may be mentioned roofing, paving, insulating electric wires, and it might also be mixed with the lignite which occurs in the neighborhood and pressed into briquettes for fuel."

"The tar sands evidence an upwelling of petroleum to the surface unequalled elsewhere in the world, but the more volatile and valuable constituents of the oil have long since disappeared, and the rocks from which it issues are likely exhausted, as the flow has ceased. In the extension of the tar sands under cover the conditions are different, and it is here that oils of economic value should be sought. In ascending the Athabasca the tar sands are overlaid at Boiler Rapid by a cover of shales sufficient to prevent the oil from rising to the surface and in ascending the river this cover gradually thickens. Favorable indications of the presence of oil in the vicinity of the Athabasca are also afforded by the existence of the natural gas springs referred to previously."

"The question of the continuity of the tar sands and their petroliferous character under cover can, however, only be settled in a decided manner by boring, and it is highly desirable that drilling operations should be undertaken for this purpose. At the mouth of the Pelican river the tar sands are probably covered by about seventy feet of strata, and this amount increases as the river is ascended. At the Athabasca Landing, if the formation extends to that point, it probably lies at a depth of from 1,200 to 1,600 feet below the surface, but the distance of the landing from the outcrop of the tar sands and the variability in thickness of the cretaceous formations makes it impossible to give more than a rough estimate."

RECEPTION TO REV. A. B. BAIRD.

THE Presbyterian church was very prettily decorated last night, the occasion being a reception to Prof. A. B. Baird, of Manitoba college, Winnipeg. Evergreens arched the windows, dried leaves hung below the electric lights, and as they shone through the foliage of different tints, cast variegated hues wherever their rays extended. Some vegetables were among the decorations, but they were made so pleasing amid flowers that the fact of their being vegetables was almost unnoticed. The pulpit was literally enveloped in garden flowers, contributed by ladies of the congregation and looked exceedingly pretty. Mr. Alex. McCauley performed upon the organ and played several marches while the people were assembling. After a hymn had been sung, the choir gave the anthem "Hear my prayer" which was nicely rendered.

Rev. Mr. McQueen, pastor of the church, then introduced the guest of the evening and in doing so said that he well remembered the time, some seven years ago, when he sat where the choir is sitting now, at the farewell which was given to Rev. Mr. Baird. At that assembly there were representatives of all the churches in town, and now that he had returned, although the evening was very wet—he was glad to see so many of other denominations present. The Rev. Mr. Baird, he said, had been a staunch supporter of Edmonton ever since he had left it, and very often, against heavy odds had said before Winnipeg audiences that the town of Edmonton and the country surrounding it was ahead of any thing to be found on the banks of the Red river. He felt quite sure that in returning Mr. Baird would see a vastly different scene to when he first arrived in the country.

Prof. Baird was then cordially received and said: My friends in Edmonton. Friends old and new. You little know how proud I am of the reception given me to-night and the pleasure it gives me to be with you again. Naturally upon an occasion like this, one's thoughts revert to past days. They go back, not only to the time when I left, seven years ago; but they go back to thirteen years ago; but they come over the prairies to be your first minister, and camped near what is now McLeod's farm, staying over night near Rat Creek. It is quite a common thing to say that one is pleased; but I am not only pleased, I am gratified to find that Edmonton has grown into a fine city. Edmonton is not the same place at all. Had I not been in good hands to-day I might have lost myself, and this to me who knew all the trails passing through the town, and an old timer too, seems strange. Dr. King, will perhaps, never again have the opinion that my judgment is at fault in regard to Edmonton; for now, knowing its beauty, he wonders that I ever left it. Prof. Baird said that he came to Edmonton a raw student and attributed to his early training here a great deal of his success since, for after all, it is a truism that a minister is what a congregation makes him. If the people pull against him, his work is sure to be kept back; but if they are loyal and true men, who stand shoulder to shoulder for the truth, he is sure to be encouraged and made successful in his work. The best there is in him will be brought out. He advised them to hold up the hand of their minister and every good man in the congregation, for then would follow the material prosperity of the church. The success of Edmonton, he said, was not altogether attributable to its people; but very largely to the blessings of God, who in his kindness had provided such soil and natural advantages. He exhorted his hearers to show their worthiness of these blessings by living aright and holding up all that is good and true.

The ladies then handed around sandwiches, cake, coffee and other delicacies, and an informal tete a tete followed. The evening was brought to a close by singing the doxology.

This year has been the greatest cattle exporting year in the history of the Northwest and thousands of dollars have been received by the farmers from this source. Several more train loads are expected in the C. P. R. yards this week.

Capt. J. Bell, who is in charge of the Hudson's Bay boat at Athabasca landing, is in the city and will remain here a week previous to spending the winter at Peterboro, Ont. Sickiness this year among the Indians of his district was a rarity. The work of fighting the goods for the H. B. northern posts this summer was earlier than usual, there being little low water in the rivers and lakes.—Free Press.
